Qualis Corporation a Finalist for the 2007 Better Business Bureau Torch Award

Huntsville, Ala., November 15, 2007 – Qualis Corporation was named a finalist in the prestigious 2007 Better Business Bureau’s Torch Award for Marketplace Ethics in the large-size company category. The Torch Award is presented annually to companies with a superior commitment to exceptional standards that benefit customers, employees, suppliers, shareholders, and surrounding communities. The award encourages all companies in our community to strive for the best possible ethical practices, making our community marketplace better for all businesses. Award criteria include:

- Management commitment to strong business ethics
- Integrity in customer and vendor relationships
- An ethical and conscientious workforce
- Integrating ethics into everyday business practices

Strong business ethics is one of the primary guiding principles at Qualis. Qualis works hard to ensure a strong commitment to quality, ethics, and building positive relationships with customers. The company’s mission statement, values, and vision reflect these ideals. “We are honored to be recognized as a Torch Award finalist,” says Elizabeth Morard, President and CEO of Qualis Corporation. “We owe our success to our employees, who each individually strive to maintain the highest levels of excellence, ethics, and integrity.”

Qualis Corporation, founded in 1993, is a woman-owned small business that employs more than 350 people and has 14 years of proven performance on more than 60 contracts supporting the U.S. Army, U.S. Air Force, NASA, major primes, and commercial customers.
